DETAILED ACTION

The amendment filed on December 10, 2009 has been entered.

Claims 1-6 and 8-12 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6 and 8-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gandolfi et al in view of Nagano.

Gandolfi et al (page 18, first paragraph) discloses the tubes are composed of titanium, but does not disclose a hot-drawn or welded layer of zirconium.

Nagano discloses a protective coating for titanium comprising zirconium for the purpose of preventing corrosion.

Since Gandolfi et al and Nagano are both from the same field of endeavor and/or analogous art, the purpose disclosed by Nagano would have been recognized in the pertinent art of Gandolfi et al.

It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to employ in Gandolfi et al a zirconium coating on the titanium tubes for the purpose of preventing corrosion as recognized by Nagano.

To hot-draw or weld the layer of zirconium as taught by Nagano onto the titanium tubes of Gandolfi et al is considered to be an obvious design choice, producing no new and/or unexpected results. Furthermore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use a known technique to improve similar devices in the same way. KSR Int'l Co. v. Teleflex Inc., 82 USPQ2d 1385, 1396 (2007)

Regarding claim 2, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to employ the zirconium coating on either the inside or outside of the titanium tube depending on which surface requires corrosion protection with respect to the intended working fluids.

Regarding claim 3, the specific titanium tube and zirconium coating thicknesses are considered to be an obvious design choice, producing no new and/or unexpected results. One of ordinary skill in the art would employ any desired tube and coating thicknesses to achieve a desired heat exchange, pressure resistance, wear ability, etc.

Regarding claims 4-6, Gandolfi et al (page 8, lines 4-22) discloses a portion of the tubes may be corrosion protected where the working or process fluid is at its maximum aggressiveness. One of ordinary skill in the art would employ any portion of the tube with the protective layer to achieve a desired amount of corrosion resistance.

Regarding claims 9-10, Gandolfi et al (Figure 3, page 24, lines 2-6) discloses a carbon or stainless steel tube plate 22 with a titanium layer 23. The specific titanium layer thickness is considered to be an obvious design choice, producing no new and/or unexpected results. One of ordinary skill in the art would employ any desired layer thickness to achieve a desired corrosion resistance, wear ability, etc.

Regarding claims 11-12, the recitations of “for the decomposition of ammonium carbamate in an urea production plant” and “for the condensation of ammonia and carbon dioxide into ammonium carbamate in an urea production plant” are considered to be statements of intended use, even if claimed, does not merit patentable weight unless the body of the claim refers back to, is defined by, or otherwise draws life and breadth from such intended use. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's argument that the disclosure (page 12, full paragraph) is not an admission is persuasive. However, it is believed the novelty of the instant invention is the combination of titanium and zirconium, since no criticality has been demonstrated in the specific bonding of titanium and zirconium. The Examiner believes the specific bonding between the titanium and zirconium to be within the routine skill in the art as set forth in the rejection above.

The rejection of the remaining dependent claims is deemed correct for lack of any arguments thereof.
